to convince the English public that there anything serious in the Behring know their Lord business. They Salis bury too well, and their Canadians much too well. The most marked result of the Canadian proceedings thus far is to give rise to some rather surly ejaculations from John Bull, not entirely fit for publication. England has long under stood that Canadian union with the British Em pire is but a thread. If she is going to make trouble, he would rather see the thread snapped This is Canada's quarrel, not England's. Behind Lord Salisbury is the warlike form of Sir Charles Tupper. What is there behind Sir Charles Tup-Who can say? Not, it is safe to say, a united Canada; still less a united England.

The recent outburst of Canadian loyalty is very pretty thing to see and hear. The statement of the Canadian Minister of Finance reads well as it is transmitted by cable; reads, in fact, as if it were made to be transmitted by cable, Canada will endeavor, says Mr. Fester, to draw more closely the bonds which unite her to the mother country. Then will she, ask the practicalpeople of this mother country, will she repeal her duties on English goods? If she will, Mr. Fester's language means something; if she will not, it is so much tall talk, and instead of strengthening will weaken those same bonds. The offer of what he calls preferential terms to the mother country is here thought rather impertinent. If Canada would stop ponching in Behring Sea, stop fitting out scaling fleets with a certainty of coming into collision with United States ships, and stop trying to drag her beloved mother country into diplomatic difficulties with America, her professions of desire for closer union would be much better received in England.

I should like, in strict confidence, to tell Mr. Foster and his colleagues, and the poaching party in Canada, a secret which Sir Charles Tupper has never disclosed to them. It is not much of a se eret, either. You cannot converse frankly with any English statesman on this subject without perceiving that he thinks Canada a nuisance. must not say so in public. He would not say so at all if this restless colony would conduct herself like other colonies, and abandon the policy, now pursued for many years, of entangling England in disputes with America in which England has no real interest, solely for the benefit of the mackerel fishers and scal-catchers of the Dominion. John Bull does not like pulling chestnuts out of the fire, or fish out of the sea, for other people. does not always know when he is made to do it. He is a little slow. But he does find out after a while, and when he does, the Canadians who think they are using him so cleverly will hear the plain truth.

Sir Charles Tupper is believed to have son influence in Downing Street. He has audiences of Lord Salisbury, is consulted, naturally enough, in the Behring Sea and other Canadian interests, and has had some hand in inspiring, though not in framing, Lord Salisbury's dis-He is a bitter partisan, and certainly no friend to America or to the American policy. He is for Canada and for the Tory party in Canada first, last, and all the time. We need not complain of that. But the Canadian Tories are, to put it mildly, mistaken if they think Sir Charles Tupper is going to run the British Empire under the stimulus of daily telegrams from Washington and New-York. A portion of the British press has at last wok up to the fact that there is such a thing as the Behring Sea question. It would have been just as well if these papers, or some of them, had reopinion nor prudent counsel. They argue, but as to the results. not wisely, unless it be the part of wisdom to never so high before as they were at the end of the say ditto to Lord Salisbury. Such argument as proceeds on the theory that Lord Salis bury's refusal to renew the modus vivendi is accompanied by an offer of various reasonable alternatives. The alternative which seems most reasonable to the British mind is the proposal that the United States should be at liberty to eatch all the poschers it can, first pledging itself to make reparation in case arbitration should decide that posching is a legitimate industry. But the latest telegram from Washington gives a different version of Lord Salisbury's latest note. What be now urges is that posching may continue if the poachers give security for damage. That is a very different proposition, and perfectly illusory, unless England makes herself answerable for these damages. If she be answerable, or be willing to assume a liability for her Canadian clients, there seems no reason why she should not enter into an express engagement to that effect. hear nothing of such an engagement. The contention is, however, an attempt to deal with the Very different is the line of "The Times," which resorts once more to the stale and vulgar pretext that President Harrison, being a candidate for re-election, is determined not to lose a chance of twisting the lion's tail. We can afford to treat that sort of talk with indifference. The two bury is supported by both the chief organs of the Unionist party; and second, that "The Times" does expressly admit that if the United States were entitled to damages as against the Canadian scal-poacher, "this country, if the proposal were accepted, would be bound to recover them and pay them over to the United States. admission may go on record. It does not bind Lord Salisbury, but it binds the author of it, and is notice to the Foreign Minister of what his own supporters will expect him to do. The temper in which the English press dis coses the general question is, with the exception I have noted, not heated, not angry, nor quarrelsome. It is, as usual, the English Radical who is most offensive in his reference to any difficulty between England and America. "Blaine and Bluster" is the polite and temperate headline under which an evening organ of Socialistic Radicalism considers all troubles with Canada. The editor of this sheet is Professor James Stuart, one of the band of idolaters who burn incense to Mr. Gindstone and one of his most constant emociates. He is the man who led Mr. Gladstone into that amazing Dopping blunder; but even that did not induce the great Home Ruler to withdraw his confidence from his indiscreet follower. The article is another example of the Gladstonian gift of riding two horses at once, going different ways. There is nothing about Mr he except the title, and nothing about bluster except Canadian bluster. If it really expressed Mr. Gladstone's opinion, Mr. Gladstone favors a renewal of the modus vivendi, but opposes the American right of search and police. That also is characteristic. As Lord Salisbury has refused to renew the modus, no harm can be done to British or Canadian interests by urging it. But the American right of search and of policing Behring Sea is a practical issue. The President has, according to Washington telegrams, announced that he will enforce it if no agreement with England is reached. The Gladstonian therefore declares that England cannot be expected to permit his right of search. He takes sides with America on an issue that is dead, and against America on the issue that is living and vital. Such is Glad-stonian friendship for the United States. The question and answer in the House of Comons yesterday throw no light on the actual progress of negotiations. Mr. Jennings put the question, and Mr. Lowther gave the answer, which to of the usual prim ambiguities. Its one interesting point is the assurance that the correspondence between the two Governments will be published on Monday. It is not likely, however, to include Lord Salisbury's reply to Mr. Wharton's last note. This last note is also, we hear, from the President's hand, and, if it may be judged by the telegraphic summary sent us abounds in vigor and point. Lord Salisbury's Mugwump allies in New-York, having read it, seem to think it necessary to come to his relief. transmit their usual assurances that nobody in America cares about a matter involving both the interest and the honor of America. One of them adds that the President is acting for political purposes. It is sufficient to put one's finger or the patriotic impulse which fires the bosom of American who thus knowingly aids and abets the enemy in an Anglo-American controversy.

It is, I think, unknown here, or unknown pub licly, that Canada has contrived to start another quarrel with the United States. It is not so big as Behring Sea, but it is a very pretty speci men of the Canadian way of dealing with inter The Dominion refuses to national questions. recognize the right of American citizens to copyright in Canada. Lord Salisbury has issued as official declaration that American citizens are entitled to English copyright in all parts of Her Majesty's dominions. That declaration is em bodied in the President's proclamation. The attention of the Canadian Minister was called to it but in vain. That great functionary either does not consider Canada within Her Majesty's juris diction, or does not recognize Lord Salisbury's official declaration as of binding force upon Can ada. He repudiates it all, and officially announced that he recognizes no American claim to protect tion under Canadian law. Canada, that is, ap peals to England, or repudiates English authority exactly as happens to be convenient to her in each case. I believe a question is to be asked in Par liament on this subject, and that the Under Sec retary of Foreign Affairs will be invited to say whether Lord Salisbury's attention was not drawn to the Canadian attitude two months ago, and whether he has vouchsafed any enswer to the remonstrance of the American Government G. RUSSIA AND THE BEHRING SEA DISPUTE. London, March 26.-Referring to the reported entent between Russia and the United States, in the matte of the Behring Sea question, "The St. James's Gazette to-day says: "Both sides know that the United States is not going to war with Great Britain, but we can not allow Russia to interfere." Some of the London papers fear that a conflict might be precipitated by the indiscreet action of naval officers.

Vice-Admiral Sir Nowell Salmon has written a letter which is published to-day, in which he says that the mmanding American naval officer will presumably be instructed to capture any vessel, whatever flag si sails under, that he finds catching scale within what the United States claims to be mare clausum; using force, if necessary. The British commanding office will be ordered to prevent by force any such inter-ference with Fritish vessels. "If both officers ex-ecute their instructions," Admiral Salmon asks, "how can a collision be avoided?"

It is sai at the State Department that nothing has been heard from Lord Salisbury in response to Mr. Wharton's note of March 22. It is evident, however, that the officials will be disappointed if a reply is not received

STILL MORE HOPEFUL PROSPECTS OF THE ACTORS' FUND FAIR.

There was an apparent relaxation some ten days ago of the intensity of interest in the Actors' Fund Fair. That was because the main work of prepara-tion had just been put fairly in motion; there had been the greatest enthusiasm at the start, amounting to actual excitement for a time, and this could not last in quite this form. Now the labors of the man They add nothing to the general agers and committees are going on more quietly, but knowledge of the facts. week's work yesterday afternoon. amounted to over $3,000. Among the recent gifts are $1,000° from the Consolidated Gas Company; $250 from Arnold, Constable & Co., and $200 from A. J. Commeyer. The Domestic Sewing Machine Company has given one of its best machines, and the Wheeler & Wilson Company has done the same. Miss Sidney Armstrong and Miss Marie Burroughs, who have been at work in Philadelphia, report the most encouraging progress there, and announce that in another week they expect to send in a long list of donations. The women of the committee declare that they have offer-for the building of booths enough to fill twice the spaces of the Madison Square Garden. The booths are of course practically all provided for, and the most of them will be erected by the managers of the various theatres. There is no doubt, however, that everyody who wishes to contribute to the success of th fair will be able to find ways to do so.

One who has never been connected with the man agement of such an affair as this can have no idea of the amount of work involved in it. A. B. de Frece the director-general of the present fair, has had large experience in the conduct of such enterprises and his previous success is a guarantee of his ability to manage them. He has been at work since early in the winter, and has attended personally to a number of departments, of which even the list would stagger any one who was inexperienced in con-trolling them. It is needless to say that no amoust of skill in planning and energy in executing would avail in such a case as the present without the co-operation of the Women's Committee. The excellent management of the whole fair is again shown in the organization of this committee and the effectiveness of its work. As a result of its labors at least half of the stagger any one who was inexperienced in con amount of money aimed at when the fair was projected will probably be in the treasury before the doors of the Garden are opened at all.

The importance which has been given to the preliminaries of the fair might lead to the suppositio that it was to be all preliminaries and no fair. This by no means the case. What the fair itself will be can be partly gathered from what has been told of the village which Stanford White is to lay out in the Garden, and all those who are attending to the detail are doing so with such earnestness that the total result will doubtless surpass anything of the kind ever attempted here before. Some definite specifications of the appearance of the fair itself are expected in a few days, and in the meantime it may be regarded as certain that it will be more than all that anybody has expected of it. liminaries of the fatr might lead to the supposit

A LOTOS CLUB " SATURDAY NIGHT." Members of the Lotos Club and their friends will regret to know that its last "Saturday Night" of the season took place yesterday evening. This series, which has spread over the entire winter, has furnished no end of amusement and entertainment to those wh attended it and they will find Saturday evenings duller than they have been until next season's round is begun The affair last night was of especial interest. There were songs by Signor Galassi, W. T. Carlton, of the Carlton Opera Company; Signor Brocolini, Redfern Hollins, the English tenor, and Arthur Seaton, baritone; Augustus Thomas, the dramatist, and Frederick Emerson Brooks gave recitations and there was music by the Romany Band, of which Lee Sommer is manager and Illes Aladar is leader. A few of those present were Dr. L. L. Scaman Captain William Henry White, ex-Judge Frederick G. Gedney, S. D. Brewster, the Rev. Dr. Newland Maynard, Dr. Charles Inslee Pardee, H. W. Rainger, D. Bonanno, Charles M. Kurtz, John Elderkin, Dr. II. M. Kinsley, John S. Beecher, Captain C. H. Lester, James M. Ashley, Isaac Lawrence, Chandos Fulton, H. A. Ives and the Rev. Willard Parsons.

While there will be no more regular While there will be no more regular "Saturday Nights" at the club this season, there will be other entertainments. On April 2 Harry Pepper will give his talk entitled "An Evening with the Ballad," which will be vocally illustrated, and on the following Saturday night the Rev. Dr. Newland Maynard will deliver his lecture on "Scotland."

THE WEEK IN SOCIETY.

Society was aroused from its Lenten apathy on Thursday, mid-Lent, the day when indulgences of various sorts are permitted. For that day alone it seemed as if the social wheels had begun to turn again, but on Friday and vesterday they were at a standstill. On Thursday there was the Mid-Lent festival at Sherry's in aid of the Orthopaedic Hospital, which was visited by all the people of social prominence in town, and many of these met at the various receptions of the afternoon, later at the Thursday Evening Club, after which some returned to dance at Sherry's in a most informal way. Mrs. Whitney and the Thursday Evening Club at her house, having prepared for the pleasure of the club members and some of her personal friends a delightful treat in the shape of Paderewski, who gave a piano recital, hoosing the works of Haydn, Schum-Liszt, and one of his own compositions. It the last meeting of the club, and nost notable of the winter. Mrs. Richard Lounsberg held a large reception in the afternoon for her niece, the Countess Festetics, a bride of a few weeks ago Near the bandsome young bride stood her husband, Count Festetics de Tolma. Several hundred people called during the afternoon. On Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Cornellus Vanderbilt gave a large dinner party, they with their guests going later to Mrs. Whit-

The wedding of the week of interest to society was that of Miss Marie de Lex Allen, a great-grand-daughter of Commodore Vanderbilt, to John Christo pher Wilmerding, jr., of New-York and Orange. Miss Allen made a beautiful bride. Her gown of heavy white satin, made quite plain, had on it some beautiful point d'Aguille, once worn by her mother, and the few diamond ornaments worn had been left her by Mrs. Daniel B. Atlen, her grandmother, one of the daughters of Commodore Vanderbitt. As the wedding took piace in the chantry of Grace Church only relatives were invited. No reception followed.

Abbey said that she would play "Levil, the Forsice", at the Metropolitan Opera House on April 19, 20 and 22, and would sail for Europe on the 23d. She is soon to play at the Avenue Theatre, London. Mr. Abbey said that he and Mr. Grau had secured the Chicago Auditorium for the time of the World's Fair and would give an immense spectacle, it which the femous Schaefer family of acrobats would appear. The spectacle will probably also be given at the Metropolitan Opera House.

Abbey & Grau are negotiating with Anton Seidt, with a view to engaging him as conductor for the next season of opera at the Metropolitan. It is said that Herr Seidl will accept the place if it is guaranteed that the orchestra and chorus shall be up to the standard of excellence on which he insists.

PADEREWSKI'S BENEFIT FOR THE ARCH FUND. Paderewski, the planist, closes this evening one of the most remarkably successful tours ever made by a pianist in this country. In keen appreciation of the generous support extended to him by his American audiences, the idea originated with him to arrange a great benefit for the Washington Arch Fund, and he himself completed all arrangements for the concert. Colonel Higginson, of Boston, with his usual public-spirited liberality, offered the services of the entire Boston Symphony Orchestra free, paying is addition all travelling and hotel expenses, and thanks are due to all the members of the orchestra, as well as Arthur Nikisch, for their share in the concert and for undergoing the fatigue of coming from Boston and returning after the concert in the night. The Steinways have come forward with the offer of paying the rent of the Metropolitan Opera House and whatever incidental printing or other expenses there may be, so that the entire gross receipts of the concert will go to the Fund.

COLONEL WANSER'S LETTER.

HE PROMISES REFORM IN JERSEY CITY. FORMALLY ACCEPTING THE NOMINATION FOR

MAYOR. The letter of acceptance of Colonel Peter F. Wanser, the Ropublican and People's candidate for Mayor of Jersey City, was handed to the committee appointed by the chairman of the nominating convention yester day. It read, in part, as follows:

by the chairman of the nominating convention yesterday. It read, in part, as follows:

John Brennan and others: Gentlemen: I am in receipt of your communication informing me that the Republican Convention, held on the 17th inst., nominated me for the office of Mayor of this city. I formally consent to be your candidate, and I hereby thank you and through you the Convention for their confidence in selecting me to represent the party in the greeent important contest.

I find my opponent says that the debt of Jersey City is to-day $18,081,000. It is increasing. Our loves are practically 3 per cent—the limit fixed by the law, beyond which they cannot go. If the law had not fixed the limit our taxes would have been still higher, for the city is constantly exceeding its appropriations, and its representatives are running to every Legislature for the right to issue bonds to pay the annual deficiencies. This great debt, this high tax rate, and these annual deficiencies have been made necessary by a course of the most victous legislation from year to year, by the establishment of mere necless political commissions, by the creation of new and unnecessary offices, to be filled by atterly the competent men, with large salaries. During the years that the city has thus been running behind, it has been in the receipt of vast sums of money. Up to the first of December last there had been received from the operation of the occalled "Martin act" the same of $5,046,194; within the last five years the taxes secured from indread property have amounted to $1,197,521 41; within the same period the city has secured from illenses the sum of $5,046,194; within the last five years the taxes secured from indread property have amounted to $1,197,521 41; within the same period the city has secured from illenses the sum of $5,046,194; within the period the city has secured from indread property have mounted to $1,197,521 41; within the same period the city has seen forcased $20,000,000, which at the present law of $6,000,000 in the present l rate of taxation makes another sum of neary 1800,000. It these great sums of money had been economically disposed of and rightly used, it is simply incredible that the city would be either in the shabby condition or financial shape in which we find it to-day. It is neither illogical nor unfair to hold the Democratic party, or that part of it which has controlled it, or the leaders who have directed its actions and its policy, as solely responsible for all the gross mismanagement and wasteful extravagnace which have characterised the last few years conduct of this city's affairs. That party has had the power, and it must be held responsible for its exercise. If I am elected I shall not regard it as a party victory, but shall feel that it is a victory for the people; a victory of order and economy, over disorder and extravagnatee.

I know of no more likely way to secure good government for a city, than the determined application

I know of no more likely way to secure good government for a city, than the determined application and enfercement of a few simple business principles-following the rules adopted by large and successful private industries—for the government of a city is the same thing in a hashness point of view, only on a large scale. Some of the rules for properly and ecohomically governing a city which now occur to me are: Discar party politics; buy the best material needed in oper and competitive market, at the lowest figures; pur classe what is wanted at the time, and no more; buy only what you want; employ no more men than the work in hand warrants; pay promptly the market rate for wages, no more, no less; then compel every man in the employ of the city, officers and laborers alike, it do his full work, day by day. An intelligent application of these simple business rules can by no possibility result in anything but an economical municipal covernment.

Change will, of course, come slowly, but five year.

bility result in anything bit an economy.

Change will, of course, come slowly, but five year of patient, determined effort will be long enough to purify the government, give us paved streets, clear and well lighted, fine schools, pure water, lower tax bills, and add largely to the value of every man's property. Such a change, and the public esteem which must attach to any one who has been instrumental in thruging it, about, should be quite enough to satisficate the public esteem when the public este

W. E. GRACE TO THE SOUTH AND WEST. HE TELIS HIS POLITICAL BRETHREN THERE WHAT A DAD MAN HILL IS AND WHAT A GOOD MAN CLEVELAND IS.

Ex Mayor William R. Grace, who is chairman of th sent a letter resterday to prominent Democrats of his acquaintance in the Southern and Western States, giv-Grace begins by saying that in all his experience be has "never been associated with a more enthusiastior a more determined set of men, many of whom go back to the regime of Tilden and Manning, in this State" The progress already made, Mr. Grace lleves, "shows conclusively that the politicians begin to realize that they must trim their sails to some extent to meet the storm." He expresses the hope that he will see the persons addressed in Chicago at the National Democratic Convention, and counts on their aid in " seeing that our delegation is admitted t the convention." Mr. Grace, of course, alludes to the lelegates who are to be sent by the May convention to meet at syracuse.

Then he unbosoms himself to his distant Demo brethren thus: "It I did not feel that it was an abso-lute necessity for the success of the Democratic parts the machine, by reaching a fair compromise in Chicago, I do not think I would take upon myself the burden of labor which I have already assumed, but, as a matter of petriotic duty to the State, and as a matter of salvation for the party next fall, I think it will be asy to show that our work will be productive of of honest patriotic convictions, are completely fired of the way in which the machine created by Senator Hill has treated the rank and file of the Democratic party. has treated the rank and he had a said and a said, if an adjustment which will bring about fair play to the great mass of the Democrats, and at the same time to some extent recognize the power of the 'ma-chine' in places where it is honestly entitled to representation, cannot be reached, then there is no hope for the election of any Democrat in the state. Of one thing I can assure you, that the men who will reprething I can assure you, that the men who will represent the State Democracy at Chicago will not with prudence and good judgment for the interest of the Democratic party, and not for the interest of any individual. Of this you may feel thoroughly assured, and it is for this reason that I hope for your aid in securing us admission to the convention as delegates. Knowing you as I do, I feel satisfied you will take my assurances on this matter and consider the question from a purely patriotic standpoint and for the best interest of true.

Democracy.

"It is the conceivable to me that the South should for a moment think of setting aside Cleveland, who is the only man in our time who has made the Democratic party respected by the really conservative elements of the North, and who has been the means of railying, within the Democratic party respected by the really conservative elements of the most intelligent and most patriotte members of every community in the Northern States. If, by the aid of the South, a silver bill should now be passed, the old sectional feeling against them would be very easily revived, and they would be looked upon by a conservative people of this section of the country as being a most dangerous element in the administration of the 2 flairs of the country, and it might take twenty-live years before a Democratic President could again be elected. Southern members give as an excess for their action that they must be silver men in order to secure their own re-election in their Congressional districts, but they should remember, too, that free silver is absolutely unattenable under the Democracy in the Nation will certainly put an end to be most of the friends at the North as the elements of good government—and yet attain nothing of what they desire in the way of a free columns bill.

"The question now is, whether we shall be misled by the pursuit of an idle plantom, or whether we shall adopt as our standard bearer a man who has taken a stand for true Democratic principles, which entities him to the respect and confidence of those who hold the balance of power. All the domitful Northern States depend upon the votes of the men whom Cleveland has taught to respect Democracy." Democracy.

THE SATURDAY NIGHT CLUE'S DINNER. The March dinner of the Saturday Night Club, which was given at the Hotland House last evening, was in honor of the press, and a number of newspaper men were present as guests of the club. Clark Beil pre-sided and the speaking consisted of a fire of musketry all along the line instead of the discharge of a few big guns-that is, pretty much everybody said a few bright things instead of deputing the task to a few men with set tousts. Variety was given to the enter tainment by songs sung by W. J. Hill. The handsome dining-room was set off with the fine display on the table and with flowers.

Those present included W. S. Audrews, James
